

Introductory Statement

This declaration affirms my authorship of the philosophical and technological project NØX, including all related developments, materials, documentation, designs, logos (with the letter “O” represented with a point beneath it), and any other elements forming the intellectual and visual identity of the project. All rights to the aforementioned works are reserved.

This document contains anonymized copies of notarially certified originals that confirm the stated authorship. Personal information, including names, signatures, addresses, citizenship details, and notary data, has been removed or masked. The originals with complete data are held by the author and the notary and may be presented if necessary, including for the resolution of disputes.

This document is prepared in digital form and is assigned a unique SHA-256 cryptographic identifier, as specified in the accompanying materials. Verification of the authenticity of this file is recommended by checking its hash value.

Declaration

I, the undersigned, [REDACTED] (also known online as "[REDACTED]"), ID No. [REDACTED] citizen, hereby declare that I am the sole creator and owner of a philosophical-technological project named NOX
— written with a dot beneath the letter O.

The project has been developed and shaped over many years of personal work, and everything related to it — ideas, algorithms, content, principles, designs, and/or any other component — is the product of my own creation and is solely owned by me.

This declaration is signed voluntarily and with full awareness, for the purpose of establishing the date of declaration and proving authorship of the project.

I bear full responsibility for the contents of this declaration.

The role of the notary is limited to verifying my identity and signature only and does not constitute confirmation or responsibility for the contents of the declaration.
